INTRODUCTION

1 Introduction

This publication is prepared for use in coding occupation descriptions of individuals in the labour force, recorded at the 1976 Census of Population and Housing. It is an alphabetical list of occupation descriptions recorded from earlier censuses and surveys with the appropriate occupation code shown opposite each entry. The companion volume, the Classification and Classified List of Occupations, contains (i) the classified list of 395 occupation codes arranged into major and minor groups and (ii) the classified list of occupations which lists alphabetically, under each code, occupation descriptions from the Index of Occupations.

2 Classification of Work Activities Recorded on Census Schedules

For Census purposes, the activity of persons in the labour force is classified by:

- (a) Occupation, which describes what the person actually does e.g. carpenter, accounts clerk.
- (b) Occupational Status, the status of each person in his occupation, e.g. Status W, a wage or salary earner; Status O, conducting own business but not employing others; Status E, conducting own business and employing others; Status H, a helper not receiving wages or salary.
- (c) Industry, the branch of productive activity, business or service in which the individual works or carries out his occupation, e.g. building and construction, bread baking.

In processing census data it is important to establish the difference in concept between industry and occupation. An establishment can employ individuals performing completely different occupations in order to make a particular product or to render a particular service, but the industry classification of each individual employed in the establishment should be the same and is determined by the nature of the product made or service rendered.

3 Question on Occupation on the Census Schedule

Question 38

In the main job held last week what was the person's occupation?

- Describe as fully as possible, using two or more words (e.g. builder's labourer).
- Where possible, give award or government designation.
- Members of the armed services must state their rank.

4 Importance of Occupation Statistics

Occupation statistics prepared from census schedules are important, because they provide occupation data for the population as a whole. They are collected with a number of characteristics of economic and social importance, e.g. age, qualifications, industry, and, as a result, census occupations can be cross-tabulated with these characteristics.

The material produced provides a statistical framework of value in government administration, and to sociologists and political scientists who are interested in studying socio-economic groupings of the population.

It is important therefore that, despite the real problems which confront the occupation coder at a census, every effort be made to do the job with the care and responsibility befitting the preparation of statistics which are of importance to the welfare of the community.

5 Classification of Occupations

The existing Classification of Occupations was prepared from the International Standard Classification of Occupations issued by the International Labour Office, Geneva, 1958. A revised International Standard Classification of Occupations, 1968, which considerably regrouped and expands the previous edition, was prepared for guidance at the 1970 round of Censuses. These changes were considered carefully in revising the Classification of Occupations for use at the 1971 Census.

The Australian Classification of Occupations, first prepared for use at the 1961 Census, was used with minor modifications at the 1966 Census. The 1971 Census Classification was not changed in structure, but contained an additional 54 codes. A number were created to maintain convertibility to the International Standard Classification of Occupations, 1968 and others to give more precise codes in certain occupation groups.

The major additions occurred in technicians, nurses, teachers, farm workers, buyers, certain metal and electrical trades and the armed services. The number of codes for fishing occupations was reduced by three.

For the 1976 Census, 28 additional codes have been added, mainly in the field of medical care.

In accordance with the International Standard Classification of Occupations, the structure of this occupation classification is based primarily on the nature of the work done.

The summary of the widespread coverage of occupation descriptions into a comparatively short list of occupation codes, minor and major groups, presents problems. An attempt has been made to define with precision a limited number of professional and trade occupations, while the remaining occupation descriptions are grouped into codes which cover persons doing similar work. These codes pay regard to the functions involved and training required to perform the job. Other aspects of work characteristics considered are type of material worked in, use of specialized equipment or type of production process.

The combination of occupation codes into minor groups, is based on similar principles, but the characteristics which link them are frequently of a broad nature.

The major groups constitute a convenient summarization of the minor groups rather than the basis from which the occupation classification has been developed.

It is considered that this classification provides meaningful information, consistent with the type of data collected and processing techniques employed.

In order to use the Index of Occupations efficiently it is most important to understand the structure of the Classification of Occupations. A copy of this will be given to you when training, and will be available for reference from your section leader during processing.

6 Index of Occupations

(a) Introductory

Ideally, an Index of Occupations for use by Census coders should contain all the occupation descriptions which appear on Census Schedules appropriately coded. However, there are countless occupation descriptions which appear on Census Schedules, many of them minor variations of one basic occupation description, and the problem of recording, classifying and indexing these is a formidable task.

The current index, which was used for the first time at the 1961 Census has been considerably expanded by additions recorded at the 1961, 1966 and 1971 Censuses. However, new entries which should appear in this index will be found during the processing of schedules from the 1976 Census.

The question on occupation in the 1976 Census Schedule, asks that employees of Government Departments and Authorities state their designations in reply to this question. This action was taken, commencing with the 1961 Census, in an attempt to eliminate the large number of government employees who had previously given their occupation as Public Servant, Civil Servant, and to differentiate between the Administrative and Clerical Groups in the classification. In broad terms, therefore, this index should be used for reference, in the case of the professions, local government administrative and clerical workers, clerical workers not government, tradesmen, service occupations, production-process workers, labourers and armed services. It also covers most designations of employees of the Postal and Telecommunications Commissions, other than administrative and clerical, which constitute an important element in several occupation codes, e.g. 655 Telecommunication Technicians, 522 Telegraphists, 526 Postmasters. The Supplementary Indexes should be used for reference in the case of all Australian and State Government, administrative, executive and clerical workers, and where occupation designations used are peculiar to a Government Department or Authority, e.g. Experimental Officer, Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization; Hostess (Linguist), Melbourne Harbour Trust.

There are a number of factors to be considered in using this Index of Occupations. It contains a large number of entries, and in the classification the same occupation description may represent a different occupation in another industry or place of work. Occupation descriptions on Schedules are often not as precise as required, and, as a result, entries have been made in the index in an attempt to cover vague and imprecise descriptions. In the allocation of occupation descriptions to occupation codes, it is often necessary to read the occupation description in conjunction with statements about industry, occupational status, qualifications, age and sex.

(b) Indexing

(i) Alphabetical arrangement

This index has been arranged alphabetically, in accordance with the letters as they appear continuously throughout the occupation description.

(ii) Cross indexing

Multiple word occupation descriptions have been inserted in their natural or usual word order. No comprehensive system of cross-indexing has been carried out. However, in a limited number of cases, cross-references have been inserted. It is therefore, essential to check alternative forms of word order before deciding that an entry does not appear in the index.

(c) Importance of titles such as Assistant, Deputy, etc., in using Index

Generally the addition of the words assistant, deputy, junior, senior, sub. are to be ignored in determining the appropriate occupation code. This procedure is not always followed in coding government designations, because, in some cases, the addition of such a title can mean allocation to a different code. However, care must be exercised in determining the code to be used when a person describes himself as an assistant to an occupation or an occupations assistant.

(d) Occupation and Occupational Status

In coding occupation, occupational status is generally not a determining factor. However, there are a number of entries in the index which are specifically qualified by occupational status and where, in fact, occupational status specifically determines the choice of occupation code, e.g.:

Occupation Description
Index Entry	Industry Description	Occupational Status and Index Code
Dealer Merchant Proprietor Retail dealer Shopkeeper Storekeeper Wholesale dealer	With industry codes 4500-4877 Wholesale and Retail Trade Excluding: 4846 Footwear Repair 4865 Motor Vehicle Smash Repair Including: 6360 Plant and Equipment Hire and Leasing Services, n.e.c.	If conducting own business and employing others, Status E, index occupation code 110 , Employers, Workers on own Account, n.e.c., Status O, Directors, Managers, n.e.c. If conducting own business but not employing others, index occupation code 203 , Proprietors and Shopkeepers, Workers on own Account, n.e.c., Status O, Retail and Wholesale Trade.
Apartment housekeeper Boarding housekeeper Caravan park operator Residential housekeeper	With industry code 9213 Private Hotels, Motels and other Accommodation	If conducting own business and employing others, Status E, index occupation code 110 , Employers, Workers on own Account, n.e.c., Status O, Directors, Managers, n.e.c. If conducting own business, but not employing others, Status O, index occupation code 803 , Boarding and Apartment House-keepers, Workers on own Account, Status O.

(e) Use of Industry as a means of specifying Occupation Codes

Industries are used in a number of cases in the index to specify occupation codes, e.g.:

(i) MAJOR GROUP O: PROFESSIONAL, TECHNICAL AND RELATED WORKERS
TEACHERS

The detailed analysis of teachers in education establishments, occupation codes 038-057, commenced at the 1971 Census, has been continued at this Census.

This has been achieved by restricting the entries in the Index of Occupations to four codes made up of teachers in education institutions at three levels, executive teachers, teachers with tertiary qualifications, teachers without tertiary qualifications and pre-school teachers and expanding these on the basis of industry codes in education—see table below.

Education establishments, coded by industry, are included in the Index of Establishment Industries.

Information given in reply to Question 39 on the Census Schedule will enable the coder to link the description on the Schedule to an entry in the Index of Establishment Industries and thereby obtain the necessary industry code to locate the Index of Occupations entry.

The following table summarizes, for education industry codes, in the index and classification, occupation codes for teachers.

TEACHERS IN EDUCATION ESTABLISHMENTS

(a) Teachers to be coded here could be found in establishments other than those included in the index of establishment industries.

(b) Includes pre-school teachers in industries other than 8231.

(c) Music teachers, with industry code 8238, but not employed in music schools, i.e. private teachers are to be coded 064 Musicians, Vocalists and Music Teachers excluding industry codes 8231-8237, 8238 (part), 8239.

(d) Includes colleges of advanced education, except music and teachers colleges.

Code 058 in the classification provides for teachers and instructors working in establishments not coded to education for industry and where practicable they should be coded to their trade or occupation.

(ii) MAJOR GROUP 1: ADMINISTRATIVE, EXECUTIVE AND MANAGERIAL WORKERS

When an occupation description falls within Major Group 1: Administrative, Executive and Managerial Workers, the occupation code is determined on the basis of industry in accordance with the following tables:

ADMINISTRATIVE AND EXECUTIVE OFFICIALS, GOVERNMENT

(Industry Codes 7000-7105, 7200 (part))

The occupation codes included in this minor group cover administrative and executive officials in Australian, State and Local Governments. Government inspectors, n.e.c., who administer government legislation, ind. codes. 7000-7103, 7105, 7200 (part) are also shown here. Representatives of Overseas Governments in Australia are classified in this minor group.

(a) In practice, most of these entries will be obtained directly from the Index of Designations of Australian and State Government Departments and Semi-Government Authorities. Entries for local government administrators and inspectors are included in this index but details of designations of some capital city local government administrations are included in the Supplementary Indexes of Designations.

EMPLOYERS, WORKERS ON OWN ACCOUNT, STATUS O, DIRECTORS, MANAGERS, N.E.C.

Occupations to be coded to 110-119 are those managerial or administrative occupations in private enterprise, which are not classified elsewhere; and in government employment, which are not classified to occupation codes 100-109, as shown in the preceding table. In practice, all persons coded to 110-119, go to code 110, to be allocated by computer to individual occupation codes on the basis of industry.

The following are managerial and administrative occupations which go to code 110. Evidence has shown that the majority of managers are covered by this list, or variations of it.

Agent, Status E, n.e.c.	Company secretary
Bank inspector (so described)	Comptroller of stores, managerial
Billiard saloon keeper, Status E	Contractor, Status E, n.e.c.
Bookmaker, Status E	Controller, n.e.c.
Branch inspector, managerial	Co-ordinator
Broker	Dance promoter, Status E
Builder, construction (so described), Status E	Dealer, Status E
Building contractor, Status E	Director, n.e.c.
Caravan hirer, Status E	Employer
Caravan park operator, Status E	Entrepreneur
Cargo supervisor, stevedoring company	Executive
Carrier, not driver, Status E	Exporter
Caterer, Status E	Fashion co-ordinator
Chairman of directors	Furniture removalist, Status E

House warden, girls hostel	Representative, manager, n.e.c.
Importer	Sales co-ordinator, manager
Inspector, banking (so described)	Secretary, managerial or executive, n.e.c.
Investor	Shopkeeper, Status E
Licensed money lender	State representative, insurance company
Manager, n.e.c.	Superintendent, n.e.c.
Managing director	Supervisor, canteen, restaurant
Manufacturer	Terminal superintendent, shipping company

Milk vendor, not driver, Status E	Timber miller, Status E
Poulterer, Status E	Warden university union
Proprietor, Status E, O, n.e.c.	Wrestling promoter, Status E
Quarry master, Status E

In practice, it would be difficult to index all types of managerial occupations in private enterprise. Each of the above descriptions appears in the index and refers the reader to the entry Manager, n.e.c., where the procedure for coding is explained.

(iii) MAJOR GROUP 7/8: TRADESMEN, PRODUCTION-PROCESS WORKERS AND LABOURERS, N.E.C.
LABOURERS, N.E.C., INCLUDING LABOURERS (SO DESCRIBED)

The codes 732-743 in the classification shown in the table below cover those respondents who describe their occupation as labourer, together with others who do similar work and are not classified elsewhere.

For convenience of operation, this table has now been extended to cover labourers employed in agriculture, forestry, fishing and hunting and mining and quarrying.

All labourers covered by the table are to be coded 732 for allocation to individual codes by computer on the basis of industry.

Labourers in agriculture, mining and quarrying, tradesmen assistants and labourers, and rail and tram track labourers are specifically indexed, and, in these cases, the entries in the index should be used in preference to this table.

(f) Use of Industry to code imprecise Occupation Descriptions

(i) Factory Worker (so described), n.e.c.

Factory hand, factory worker, mill hand, process worker, refinery hand are terms often used by employees in factories, mills, refineries as occupation descriptions on census schedules. Where experience has shown that this type of occupation description is used extensively, specific codes have been introduced into the classification:

- 605 Textile Factory Workers (so described)
- 614 Clothing and Related Product Factory Workers (so described)
- 617 Boot and Shoe Factory Operatives
- 661 Factory Workers, Metal, Electrical (so described)
- 672 Woodworking Factory Workers (so described), n.e.c.
- 697 Glass Factory Workers (so described)

A number of entries covering these codes appear in the index. The index also covers factory workers in many other classification codes.

However, when the description does not appear in the index the occupation code is to be allocated on the basis of industry as set out in the table which appears under the heading Factory Worker (so described), n.e.c.

(ii) Labourer (so described), n.e.c.

See notes above, 'Use of Industry as a means of specifying Occupation Codes.'

(iii) Manager, n.e.c.

See notes above, 'Use of Industry as a means of specifying Occupation Codes' under heading, Employers, Workers on own Account, Status O, Directors, Managers, n.e.c.

g) Special codes for imprecise Occupation Descriptions

(i) 744 Apprentices (so described), n.e.c.

Respondents who state they work as an 'apprentice' or 'improver' in a trade are to be coded to that trade; however, those who give their occupation as 'cadet engineer', 'cadet chemist' etc., in the engineering or science professions are not to be coded to their corresponding professions but to technician codes 067-078. A statistical cadet in government employment is to be coded to 154 Clerical Workers, Government, n.e.c. and an articulated law clerk, not government to code 155 Clerical Workers, Not Government, n.e.c.

Because a number of occupation descriptions appear only as 'apprentice', 'learner' or 'improver' without further particulars to enable more precise coding, a specific code 744 Apprentices (so described), n.e.c., has been included in the classification to facilitate processing.

The number allocated to this code will be tabulated by industry.

(ii) 746 Foremen (so described), n.e.c.

Where the term 'foreman' or 'leading hand' forms part of an occupation description, it is to be coded to the occupation or process described, e.g. leading hand or foreman plumber is to be coded to plumber and foreman vegetable freezer to food processors and canners.

Three specific codes have been included in the classification to cover cases where the term 'foreman' only is stated for occupation and the process is either metal or electrical working or building and construction viz:

648 Foremen, Metal Working (so described), n.e.c.

657 Foremen, Electrical (so described), n.e.c.

683 Foremen, Building and Construction (so described), n.e.c.

However, if the occupation stated is 'foreman' or 'leading hand' without particulars of the occupation, trade or process in which employed the description is to be allocated to classification code 746 Foremen (so described), n.e.c.

The number allocated to this code will be tabulated by industry.

(iii) 747 Machinists (so described), n.e.c.

'Machinist', 'machine minder', 'machine operator', 'machine attendant' are terms used often in describing occupations on census schedules.

The entry '... machinist' is an important part of a number of codes in the classification viz:

152 Office Machine Operators

406 Machinemen and Drilling Machine Operators, Mining and Quarrying

603 Knitters and Knitting Machine Setters, including Hosiery

613 Machinists, Sewers, Embroiderers, Textile Products, Leather Garments and Gloves

634 Machine Tool Setters and Operators, Metal, including Metal Machinists (so described) as well as appearing as entries in many other classification codes.

A number of entries covering various types of machinists, e.g. knitting machinists and machinists in specific production processes, e.g. machinist, tin can making, appear in the index.

However, where the description given is only 'machinist' without particulars of the occupation, trade or process in which employed being recorded the entry should go to classification code 747 Machinists (so described), n.e.c. which has been created to facilitate coding of such entries.

The number allocated to code 747 Machinists (so described), n.e.c., will be tabulated by industry.

(h) Special code for Buyers (so described), n.e.c.

Buyers (so described), n.e.c. previously classified with Employers, Workers on own Account, Status O, Directors, Managers, n.e.c. are shown separately to meet the requirements of the International Standard Classification of Occupations, 1968. The number allocated to Code 208, Buyers (so described), n.e.c. will be tabulated by industry.

(i) Dual Occupation Descriptions

Where two or more occupation terms are used in reply to the question on occupation, code to the first mentioned, e.g. Clerk-receptionist code as clerk; Chartered accountant, company director, code as accountant. However, there are certain entries in the index where by usage, two or more occupation terms are normally combined and used to describe an occupation, e.g. 'Fitter and turner', 'Sheep and wheat farmer'. In the case of this type of entry, the occupation description is regarded as identical irrespective of which term is mentioned first, e.g. 'Fitter and turner' or 'Turner and fitter', 'Sheep and wheat farmer' or 'Wheat and sheep farmer'.

(j) Enlisted Service Personnel

All enlisted service personnel, irrespective of occupation description or designation are to go to occupation codes 824-831.

(k) Qualifications

The use of qualifications or trade training at professional, trade or other certificate levels can be of considerable value in defining certain occupation codes.

This is particularly true for a number of professional occupations in Major Group 1, where steps have been taken to restrict the coverage of the codes to those persons holding professional qualifications. Doctors and dentists are admitted to their professions only when they hold specific qualifications. Professional qualifications are also required of architects, engineers, scientists, etc. Specific qualifications are often demanded of technicians before acceptance in their occupations, and the granting of tradesman status in certain occupations is achieved only by apprenticeship training and the successful completion of a technical college apprenticeship trade certificate course.

Qualifications have been specifically introduced to code librarians and nurses, and they are particularly important in the case of engineers where persons giving this occupation description can be classified at either the professional, technical or trade level.

Engineers allocated to the codes listed below are required to hold university or college of advanced education degrees, technical college diplomas or be members of an appropriate professional institute:

- 002 Civil Engineers, Professional
- 003 Electrical and Communication Engineers, Professional
- 004 Mechanical Engineers, Professional
- 005 Chemical Engineers, Professional
- 007 Mining Engineers, Professional
- 008 Industrial Efficiency Engineers, Professional
- 009 Professional Engineers, n.e.c.

Trainee or cadet engineers in the labour force, or engineering assistants with partially completed degrees or diplomas go to engineering technician codes 068-071 and 073-074.

Engineers (so described) with trade qualifications are to be coded to the Metal and Electrical Minor Groups of Major Group 7/8: Tradesmen, Production-Process Workers and Labourers, n.e.c.

(l) Occupations 'Inadequately Described' or 'Not Stated'

The use of code 865, 'Occupation Inadequately Described' or 'Not Stated' should be kept to a minimum.

(m) Additions and Alterations to the Index

Under no circumstances is a coder to make any additions or alterations to the index without specific instructions from the Officer-in-Charge.

(n) Definitions

Certain occupation descriptions appearing in the index are qualified as follows:

- ASIC Australian Standard Industrial Classification
- L.G. Local Government

- n.e.c. ... Not elsewhere classified. A reported occupation description is to be coded to the number appearing opposite the index entry, so qualified, only after the coder has found that the description on the schedule does not appear elsewhere in the index; and, in particular, under some other order of words.
- (so described) ... When an entry in the index is so qualified, only reported occupation descriptions with the same or equivalent wording should be coded to that entry.
- Post & Telecom. ... Postal and Telecommunications Commissions.

7 Instructions for Coding Occupations

(a) General

- (i) Before attempting to code occupation from Census Schedules it is important to have a knowledge of the structure of the Classification of Occupations. A copy of this classification will be made available when training, and a copy will be held by the Section Leader for reference throughout the processing period. However, it is important to use the Classification of Occupations only as a reference source, and not in the actual process of coding.
- (ii) It is important to read and understand the preceding introductory pages.
- (iii) Under no circumstances is a coder to alter or add to this index without specific instructions from the Officer-in-charge.
- (iv) Most replies to Question 38, Occupation, can be coded from entries in the index.
- (v) If, in using the index, the particular order of words reported on the schedule, does not appear in the index, look up all possible variations before assuming that the description is not included.
- (vi) Learn to scan or summarize details on the schedule relevant to the coding of occupation. Industry, qualifications and other particulars are often important.

(b) Procedure for Determining Occupation

- (i) Scan the following information on the schedule:

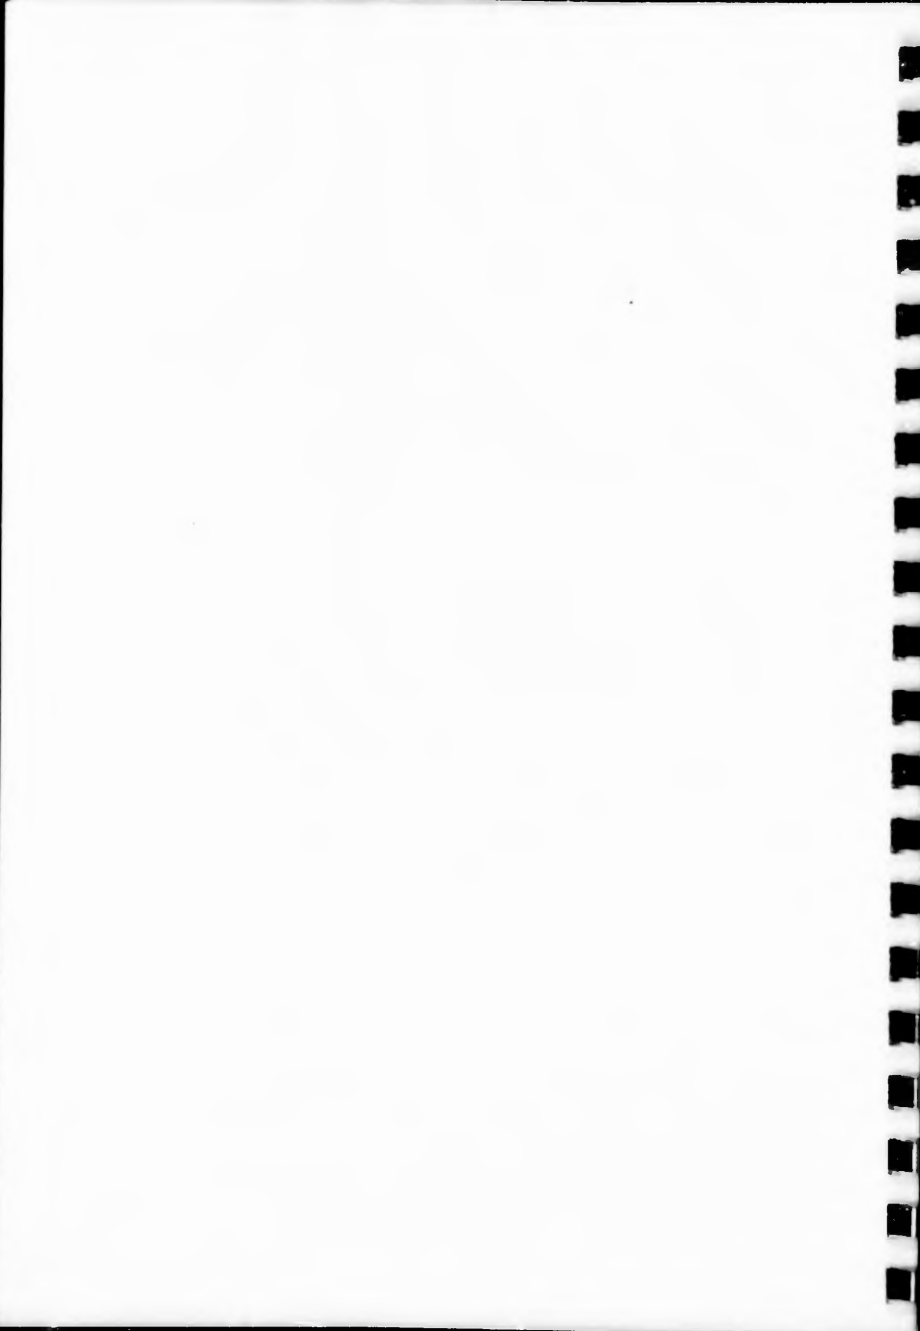

Page 1	Question 2	Sex
Page 1	Question 3	Age
Page 3	Questions 20, 21, 22	Trade or other qualifications
Page 6	Question 36	Hours worked
Page 6	Question 37	Occupational status
Page 6	Question 38	Occupation
Page 6	Questions 39, 40	Industry, name and place of work

Where relevant:

Page 1	Question 4	Relationship to head of household
		For wives or other relations engaged in family businesses as shown in the index.

- (ii) Where the information stated in reply to Question 38, Occupation, is in the index, either as described, or in some alternative word form, code as indicated in the index.
- (iii) The replies to Questions 20, 21, and 22 Trade or other qualifications are to be noted in those cases where professional or trade qualifications are important in determining the occupation codes, e.g. Professional Engineers, Codes 002-005, 007-009.
- (iv) The reply to Question 37, Occupational Status is important in determining certain occupation codes, e.g. Code 203, Proprietors and Shopkeepers, Workers on Own Account, Status O, n.e.c., Retail and Wholesale Trade.
- (v) In the case of teachers in education institutions, the industry code is to be established from the Index of Establishment Industries, before coding occupation from this index.

- (vi) Where the occupation does not appear in this index and the answers to Questions 39, 40, Industry, name and place of work, indicate that the person is employed by a government department or authority refer to the Supplementary Index of Designations of Australian and State Government Departments and Semi-Government Authorities for each State. See page 6, for comment on the content of this index and the Supplementary index.
- (vii) Where the occupation stated is a precise description and does not appear in either part of the index, as described or in some alternative word combination, then refer to the Section Leader Instructions to occupation and industry coders contain the detailed procedure to be followed in these circumstances. The important point is that a query card should be raised, adequately documented and coded for future reference.
- (viii) If Question 38, Occupation, is not answered, or the reply is indefinite, refer in the following order to:
 - (a) Questions 39, 40 Industry, name and place of work
 - (b) Question 37 Occupational status
- (ix) If still unable to determine an occupation description to ensure accurate coding by reference to the index, refer to the Section Leader.

110 Manager, n.e.c.

EMPLOYERS, WORKERS ON OWN ACCOUNT, STATUS O,
DIRECTORS, MANAGERS, N.E.C.

Occupations allocated to code 110 in this index, cover codes 110-119 of the Classification of Occupations. They are those managerial or administrative occupations in private enterprise, which are not classified elsewhere; and in government employment, which are not classified to occupation codes 100-109, administrative and executive officials, government, industry codes 7000-7105, 7200 (part) or occupation codes 104-109, inspectors, government, n.e.c. industry codes 7000-7103, 7105, 7200 (part). The computer will allocate those coded to code 110 to the individual codes 110-119, on the basis of industry codes shown in the table below.

Description	A.S.I.C. Code	Occupation Code for 'Managerial' and 'Administrative' Workers

	9900	119

* A non-resident manager or director of a pastoral company (so described) operating a rural property is to be coded here. However, if a person states his occupation as a profession or trade even though he exercises managerial or administrative functions he is to be coded to his profession or trade and not to codes 100-109, or 110-119. For example, pharmaceutical chemist, harrier and solicitor, master plumber, panel beater.

The following are managerial and administrative occupations in private enterprise which go to code 110. Evidence has shown that the majority of managers are covered by this list, or variations of it.
